This Company is formed for the purpose of working the very extensive auriferous reef situated nine miles north of the township of Wellington, and three-quarters of a mile south of Mitchell's Creek, on two leased blocks of each ciphty and ninety acres. The reef extends for one mile.

A well defined and strong deposit of auriferous quarter, has been opened in several places, widening rapidly as it descends. There are also several smaller reefs upon the property.

The results of a series of crushings at the Mint, and by:

descends. There are also several smaller reefs upon the property.

The results of a series of crushings at the Mint, and by Mr. Chappell's machine, as also at the Wentworth Estate Company's Works, show that the reef will yield throughout from 13 dwns. to an ore, of standard gold to the ton of quantz. The stone also contains a large quantity of tron gyrites, the probable large yield of gold from which has not been taken into account. One of the small reefs has been found to yield $i$ ounces of gold, and 24 ounces silver to the ton of stone.

The result of quartz crashing conventes in Visitoria has the ton of stone.

The rault of quartz crushing companies in Victoria has antifactority proved that success in this branch of industry depends not so much upon the excess in richness of the quartz as upon the quantity that can be raised, which in the undertaking now laid before the public is reparted to be practically illimitable; and a reference to the Ballanar Stan, of the 4th instant, will show that their most profit-stale companies—Pert Public Co., South Clunes Co., and New North Clunes Co.,—yield respectively 4 dws. 7 grains, 7 dwts. 3 grains, and 18 dwts. of gold to the ton of quartz.

7 dwts. 3 grains, and 18 dwts. of gold to the ton or quartz.

The shares offered to the public will be preferent to the extent of a dividend of 10 per cent. Dividends will be paid per share without reference to the amount called up, and when practicable will be paid monthly.

It is estimated that £10,000 will be amply sufficient to put the mine in a paying condition.

Monthly progress reports will be published for the information of shareholders.

The company will be registered under the Mining Act, by which the shareholders have NO LIABILITY beyond the subscribed capital.

where the shareholders have No LIBILITY beyond the subscribed capital.

With the view of obtaining the most reliable information before submitting this undertaking to the public, one of the provisional directors proceeded to the mine and remained there for more than a month, supervising the casmination and testing of the reef. A copy of his report, tegether with prospectuses, forms of application, and all information, can be had on application to the company's broker.

slate formation, the bounding rock of the lode being much decomposed.

The earth's surface dips away from the course of the lode on the west, thereby affording a good site for the erection of machinery.

There are three watercourses, which cross the surface of the lode within a range of six chains at a steep incine to the West, that can be made to converge for supplying the dams or reservoirs that may be required with water, and if it be considered expedient a race may be carried from Mitchell's Creek at a small cost; but I apprehend with the advantages before referred to, coupled with the raising of water from the lode, the outlay would not be required.

In conclusion, I may remark that from the information I have roceived from several presons who have worked the mine during several months, as to its auriferous character, together with what I have of the extent and strength of the veinstone, I must confess that I entertain a very favourable opinion of it, and if the quarts which I ferwarded to Mr. Chappell, of Mudgee—Mr. Thompson, at the Wentworth Retate Gold Mining Company, Lucknow—and the Rayal Mint, of Sydney, give by creaking settifactory results, I shall have no hesitation in recommending inneediate steps being taken to mine this extensive and promising reef.

I worked out the position of the blocks, although my in-estisfactory results, I shall have no besisation in recommending immediate steps being taken to mine this extensive and premising recf.

I worked out the position of the blocks, although my instruments were of a very simple description, for it was impossible, smild ridges and heavy timber, to determine their situation, or how the recf traversed them, without first running the boundary lines.

By reference to the section of No. 1 block before referred to, it will be resdily seen that a drive may be carried from the base of the ridge, in a northerly direction, along the course of the lode, a distance of about thirty chains, that will in all probability open up a supply equal to about 25,000 tone of stone, which can be stoped away at a cost of a few shillings per ton. Then, having such an extent of quarts directly available and so easy of access, would justify, in my exhibe, the construction and erection of the plant and machinery, previously refered to, with all possible dispatch. It may be further remarked that the heavy expense and loss of time generally incurred by companies in sinking shafts and opening up of extensive reserves of ore before erecting their machinery, will, in the case of this adventure, be avoided, for the reasons above recited.

The ten-acre block is situated about eleven chains west of No. 1 block, but I would certainly recommend that it be increased to an area of sighty acres. On this block are two open cuttings or excavations, shewing the sections of what appears to be an attensive and amost horizontal recf, about two feet thick. Several tests have been made from these irregular developments, averaging, I am informed, some 15 dwts, of gold per ton of stone. From the many indications en the surface, and, judging from comparison, many other points on this area can be opened where the recf. may be found quite as near the surface. In order to attain success in the working of the mine is will be in the flist place absolutely necessary to have a thoroughly competent mining officer at the head of that department of the company's operations, therefore I recommend that he be a person who has worked and acquired his experience at the Clones or other well-known quartz usining districts of Victoria, that he understand the development of the mine both as regards matters of detail and lact in the letting of contracts, but above all capable of governing the miners and others within the compass of his department. Then with the reef of the character and promise of the one under consideration, we may hope to appreximate to the celebrated New North Clunes mine of Victoria, which reduces and otherwise treats about 500 tons of quartz weekly, and has been paying monthly dividends equal to £2 per 2056th share, with occasional ones of £3 since it entered the dividend-paying list, a period of twelve months, besides accumulating a reserve fund of £12,500 to words an increased supply of water.

Wellingten being but seven miles from the mine is a matter of some importance, for if it should so happen that a rofficient number of thares be applied for by revidents in and about that township and district, perhaps it would be to the interest of the contemplated company if a local East of the paying the cont

TO THE FLOCKOWNERS OF NEW SOUTH WALES AND QUERNSLAND.—GENTHERIN,—
'the spirone of the Wool Ceason r. minds us to any before you the advantages we are prepared to offer for the Sale or Shipant of Wool and other produce.
Our warehouses will be found to combine all the essenticals for storing and displaying wools to the best advantage;
they are situated in close proximity to the Exchange and Civular Quay, and consignments can be received, stored, and delivered with all possible dispatch.
The Sample Rooms are well lighted, and the arrangements recure the display of wool to advantage.

The bulk will be stored on the floors of the warehouser, allowing reasonable space between that tiers, in order that each hale may be accessible for inspection, and permit layers to form careful valuations.

Auction sales will be held, at half-past 2 o'clock p.m., on each Wedneday during the cosson, and oftener if required. The sample bales will be opened out, and ready for inspection at 6 o'clock on the morning of sale.

It is prenature to offer an opinion as to the probable range of prices; but unusually large orders have already strived here and in Melbourne, and it is reasonable to one ticipate considerable additions by next mail—as also, new buyers. As wool forms a favourable mode of remittance with most of the importers, they can afford to give high prices: remitting in this mode, they save the exchange charged on bank drafts. It will, consequently, be evident that there are good grounds for anticipating firm composittion and full merket rates.

In thus referring to the prices which may be anticipated we may mention as a recognised fact, that for several years past, those growers who have realized in the colony have reaged considerably more advantage to secure quick and li is clearly to the growers' advantage to secure quick and brighted.

It is clearly to the growers advantage to secure quick and retain returns by selling in the colony, the delay and risk stradent on having recourse to a distant and uncertain market belonging more properly to the merchant and attradent on having recourse to a distant and uncertain market belonging more properly to the merchant and speculator.

Should our efforts to secure satisfactory prices in this market be unsuccessful, we shall be glad to undertake the hipment of your consignments to our agents in London. An immediate cash advance up to full colonial value will be at your disposal directly you advise us of your determination to try the English market, and the only charge which will be made, beyond the current bank rate of exchange and insurance, will be ONE SHILLING PER HALE, for receiving, weighing, storage, &c. Our agents in England are practical men, being not city therough judges of wook, but also wall sequainted with the various fluctuations to which the markets are culyiest. They are also in a position to hold over, or withcraw consignments from sale, should there be a reasonable prospect of occuring higher rates by doing so.

We have additional accommodation for the storage and display of sheepsking, hides, and tallow: and sales in this department will be held as usual, weekly, at our Warehouses in Queen's place.

Thanking you for the very liberal support already accorded to us, a continuance of which our most streamous efforts shall be exerted to deserve.

We remain, your faithfully.

A N E X P L A N A T I O N.—

A TO THE EDITORO OF BRILL'S LIFE.—Siz.—
The concluding compliments with which I am honoured in your notice of the School of Arts, in last Saturday's Bull.'s Life, demands an explanation. Upon arrival in Sydney, I was favoured with a copy of the Free list of the Prince of Walce Opera House—which list I adopted at the School of Arts, placing three gentlemen dewn as representatives of Bell's Life in Sydney. Mr. Levinon, who transacted similar business for Mr. Stewark, himself offered to communicate the arrangement to gentlemen of the Press. After reading your article, I made inquiry, and find that a Mr. Taylor, whose name is nor upon the usual free list of the theatre, is admitted into the halls of that establishment. As there is no record of this arrangement, I trust to be acquitited of any intentional want of couriery. If you consider three free admissions insufficient to discover that Mr. Heller is no better than others. I have introduced to Australasia, I have no objection to place four or five upon the list. I regret that the circumstance of my having associated a few members of the Press with some old friends to meet Mr. Heller upon his arrival in Sydney, should have been misconstrued; and cannot help thinking that we have arrived at a very low scale of morphy motives in giving a welcome to a guest of distinction upon his landing in a strange country.

Yours respectfully,

Yours respectfully, GEORGE COPPIN. School of Arts, October 11th.

Mr. J. V. LAVERS begs respectfully to inform his triends and the public generally, that he has THIS DAY entered into PARTNERSHIP with Mr. HENRY KIDD HARPUR, of Sydney, for the nurse of HARPUR, of Sydney, for the purpose of supplying shipping and families with fresh meat protected by the process lately patiented by him.

The business will be carried on in those large and commodious premises, 772, George-street South, near the Haymarket, under the style or firm of LAVERS, HARPUR, and CO. Sydney, 1st October, 1869.

PANELY ISON.

PROTECTED MEAT NEW PATENT COMINFORMATION OF THE PANELY LAVERS, HARPUR, and CO. beg leave to inform their friends and the public generally, that they are now prepared to supply meat by the carcase or joint, protected by the process lately patented by Mr. J. V.
LAVERS, and which has proved a complete success. Their ultimate object is to export by the carcase on a large scale, but, in the meantime, they are ready to supply shipping and families, and solicit suppert in the undertaking from those who take an interest in the prosperity of the colony. They invite satention to a large quantity of mutton, protected about a month ago, which is now as fresh as if only killed a few hours. Many of the most prominent and influential members of the community have tasted the same, and certified to its being perfectly sweet, and much more tender than any fresh killed. Upwards of two hundred signatures to this effect may be seen at their office, smoongst whom are the heads of the naval, military, clerical, legal, and medical professions.

drinkers generally, but many, who had hitherto net found any preparation to suit them, have, after one trial, adopted the Maravilla Cocca as their constant boverage for breakfast, numben, &c.

"A BUCCESS UNPRECEDENTED."

See following Extract from the Globe of May 14, 1868.

"arious importers and manufacturers have attempted to attain a reputation for their prepared Coccas, but we doubt whether any thorough success had been achieved until Measure Taylor, Brothers discovered the extraordinary qualities of 'Maravilla' Cocca. Adapting their perfect system of preparation to this finest of all species of the Theobroms, they have produced an article which supersides every other excea in the market. Entire solubility, a delicate aroma, and a rare concentration of the purest elements of nutrition, distinguish the Maravilla Cocca above all others. For Homocopaths and invalids we could not recommend a more agreeable or valuable beverage."

[PROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.]

THE election of an alderman to represent Honeysuckle Ward, in the room of Alderman Shaw, resigned, took place on Thursday. Party feeling ran pretty high, the contest being between the vigilance party and the Council party. Mr. Fleming came forward supported by the vigilance committee, and Mr. R. Hall was supported by the Hannell party. From early morn the partisans of both sides were out actively canvassing. Omnibuses, cabs, and several vehicles decorated with flags and placards were brought into requisition to carry the voters to the poll, and no pains were spared to get every elector to vote. At the close of the poll considerable excitement prevailed, but everything passed of quietly and good humouredly. Mr. Hall was the successful candidate by 11 votes, the numbers being—Hall, 154; Fluming, 143; majority for Hall, 11. From present appearances we are likely to have a keen contest in all the three wards in February next.

The Northumberland Electorate seems to be a favourite one, if we are to judge by the number of candidates offering, no less than five are said to be already in the field; and how many more we are likely to have, it is difficult to determine. Only one candidate at present has publicly come forward, vix., Mr. J. Ward, of Sydney. Mr. Shaw, of our city has signified to several of his friends that he will contest the election; but as yet has made no public announcement. A requisition is said to be in course of signature, asking Dr. Brookes to come forward.

The strong southerly winds prevailing the last few days, have been the means of bringing up a great number of vesse's both large and smail, which have given to our harbour quite a healthy and business-like appearance. It is seem time since we had so many vessels in port at one time. A good see is running outside, but the weather appears more settled, with a probability of fine weather. NEWCASTLE.

STOCK AND STATION CIRCULARS.

Bernwette and Terrace.—Stations: We continue to have inquiries for good cattle stations situated in the Northern and Western clatricits of New South Wales. Owners of this description of the colony have been greatly reduced by disease and had assaonaleds many to suppose that really paying cattle properties will be the most favourite means of squatting investment for some years to come. We regret to say there appears to be no reaction in the demand for sheep properties. We have several in our hands for sale at very tempting prices, and would yield, no doubt, very handsome returns. Store Cattle: We have no sales to report. Sale at very tempting prices, and would yield, no doubt, very handsome returns. Store Cattle: We have no sales to report. The colonial state of the colon marges for this class of stock shortly, as the season for travelling is reported good. Sheep: It is yet premature in the season to give quotations.—October 13.

GOLISMARCUM, ENTR, AND CO.—Pat Cattle: The supply to hand this week consisted chiefly of prime quality, equal to the dramand, 16s per 100 lbs. about the average price.

Fat Sheep: Market inundated with sheep, and reported to the commendation of the season of opinion, that if the Melbourne Meat Preserving Company can even exist, a handoome fortune awaits those who will undertake a similar establishment here. It has always been, and far more so now, the interest of the squatter to facilitate the immediate establishment of a central market, for the sale of their stock; and although the committee appointed at the public meeting have made their report to the Corporation of Sydny, recommending, we believe, a site at either Fetersham or Barten, the short of the season of the

SYDNEY LABOUR MARKET.

WILLIAM BROWN.—This market is tolerably well attended men applying for employment as storemen, waiters, groomer, in other light occupations. These classes are in excess of pressibilities, and fencers, farm error and, gardeness, and labouremen of these descriptions obtain employment readily at resume live wages. The supply of female servants is sufficient for the present moderate demand for town and country. No mater change is noticeable in rates of wages.—October 15,

To the Editor of the Herald.

Sin,—With reference to the meeting of Presidents of Schools of Art, as published in your issue of the 13th instant, for the object of prolonging the existence of such instant, for the object of prolonging the existence of such echools, it would be well for the Legislature to consider how far it is justified in these times of retremchaent, in voting public money for the purposes to which schools of arts are, in some cases, devoted.

The school at St. Leonards does not flourish, although it is economically managed, and every annusing espedient has been tried to impart vigour to it.

Information is required as to the number composing the school classes, and their average attendance; how many avail themselves of the reading-room, the number of subscribers to the circulating library, and the revenue from that source, the number of enrolled members, and the total revenue from all sources.

This information would be valuable if supplied by all schools, and would enable the people to judge how far it is vise to keep such schools affoot at the public cost.

It would be more creditable to the Government to aid the establishment of free libraries, to which all persons could resort, and avail of the benefit, rather than support schools of art (so called), but which are principally circulating libraries, subsidised by the Government, composing with others in the Metropolis, and which are dependent for existence on the subscription, and small rental obtained by every expection to entitle them to the Government bounty of £200 per annum, now reduced to £100.

It is just, however, to state, that many interesting and instructive lectures have been delivered occasionally, any mount of lecturing; the continued efforts of a Bed-lews, and a Broog-ham, would fail in leading the public taste to support them at present.

The time has arrived when the buildings should be deveted to more useful purposes.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1869.

In the Legislative Assembly, vesterday, there was no querum, and the Freaken adjourned the House to Tuesday next.

The pilgrimage to Clonterf proposed by the admirers of the lately-liberated Fenians is one of those insolent outrages on public decency of which this colony has seen too many. The of which this colony has seen too many. The Queen's son was shot at Clontarf—perhaps by a madman. He was giving the sanction of his presence to a Home erected for seamen of all rations. He was taking part in the festivities of men of every country and shade of honest opinion. He fell by a shot in the back, which only a merciful Providence could have prevented from being fatal. The Fenians had threatened this vengeance in the form of predictions. There was one newspaper here that by inflammatory incitement stirred up the malignant spirit of its ment stirred up the malignant spirit of its supporters—which taught without disguise that murderers were patriots, whose death might be avenged. We remember the indignant horror of many countrymen of the assassin. He belonged to the clerical order; he was a man of education, and he devoted himself to this dreadful deed. In the spirit of equity, the Press and people of this co-atry refused to make responsible for his crimo even those the wickedness, the cruelty, the fanaticism of the wickedness, the cruelty, the fanaticism of this crime. What can have inspired the the wickedness, the cruelty, the fansticism of this crime. What can have inspired the promoters of this pilgrimage to Clontar? The very association of names is calculated to stir up the most bitter recollections. These Fenians, released by the clemency of the Sovereign from a part of the punishment which, by the mildest construction of law, they merited, are called to visit the spot where one of those dreadful acts was perpetrated which, in the eyes of just men, have for ever rendered Fenianism infamous.

This colony is not Ireland every one have

This colony is not Ireland; every one has This colony is not Ireland; every one has a right to hold any opinion he pleases of the policy of parties at home. But what have we to do with these parties or their crimes? The laws of this country, if they do not give everything to everybody, are impartial to all: thing to everybody, are impartial to all; or, if any grievance can be proved, there is no obstacle to redress. Is it just to make the colony the arena of these ancient conflicts, or to offend the sympathies and convictions of the people? Englishmen love their country—they are anxious for its honour, they detest its defamers, they scorn its assailants, who claim defamers, they scorn its assailants, who claim to the utmost every privilege and advantage under the law and outrage its spirit. Their countrymen have enjoyed more than their share of revenue and office, and have employed their united power in their common objects; and yet their pretended representatives take every opportunity by the Press and public demonstrations to show hostility to the Crown of Great Britain. But can they expect that these shameful proceed. can they expect that these shameful proceed-ings will not be retorted, or that they will not make it more difficult to preserve fair legisla-tion. If it were not for their proceedings we should hail the arrival of Irishmen in this cotony as we should Germans or Swedes, and with all the difference of a common language; but we distrust the late system of immigration, because if such persons are to bring here all the passions of Ireland and rule in our politics, their preponderance may be fatal r peace. We have been forced to adopt these views by the eager support disloyalty receives, and the continued currency of a literature breathing nothing but defiance to the Crown and the laws. One pilgrimage to Crown and the laws. One pilgrimage to Clontarf in honour of Fenianism does more to settle this distrust than can be removed by thousand general declarations.

And what have the liberated Fenisns done And what have the liberated Fenians done to merit an ovation where Royal blood was so recently spilt? The Fenian conspigacy was a levy of war—as well as a dark plot of murder. The wanton attack on life, and the ferocious policy of the leaders, have left a deep stain on all in their confederation. The Crown has, indeed, remitted the punishment of lesser offenders, and we would not put in their path any obstacle to recovery; but this is no reason for public because. The rejection of reason for public honours. The rejection of the Fenians from the other colonies was an application of a law never intended for political cases; but the abuse of hospitality seems to cast doubt on the wisdom of our system which restores to full rights those who have so recently violated the laws. We remind the men who are to visit with catentations perade the story of externation We remind the men who are to visit with ostentatious parade the spot of attempted murder, that they are indulging their vanity at the expense of their fellows still in bondage. What a comment on the petitions for liberation! Can any Government not too imbecile for toleration show mercy to such men, when others who have received it men, when others who have received it abuse it so shamefully. Will not the probabilities of release be diminished just in proportion to the success of this defiance? England has no motive to prolong these penalties except as the necessary vindication of law; but defiance and contempt will show that necessity to exist, and close for long years the dungeon door on many a victim of repented folly and crime. We fear, with such persons, such considerations are quite powerless. They care nothing for the sufferings of others; nothing for the poverty and sorrow of wives and children compared with an ignoble triumph.

We fear it is impossible to acquit some of wilfully misleading these Fenians into an odious wilfully misleading these Fenians into an odious display. We still will hope that they may themselves withdraw from it. We do not of course suppose that any priest of the Roman Catholic Church will so forget his duty as to promote openly the cause of disorder and disanion. We have full confidence that many will offer a more decided discountenance. The absent ARCHDISHOP could only hear with regret so scandalous a scheme. Against such proceedings, his whole public life has been a standing protest and emphatic condemnation. If the protest and emphatic condemnation. If the Fenians are wise they will retreat from such society and exhibitions. They will find their popularity very short-lived. We have known many who have placed themselves in the first ranks of sedition. They have always been the fools.

A good man may be found wandering from the right under the influence of powerful provocation, but we cannot fancy how a real patriot of any party can visit the sod of the Cemeteries Regulation Bill, seeing that it i, in its main provisions, quite coincident with views urged again and again in this young. The Act now in force, although it was, as Mr. Forsten acknowledges, a step in advance of what went before, failed to occupy the whole ground before it, in providing for all seed of the state of all such circumstances as are usually con-templated in such measures. It is a surprising circumstance that an Act of Parliament which proposed to deal with the entire question of the burial of the dead, in the interests of public health and public decency, should contain contain no powers to close burial grounds that were found to have become public nuisances, or to prohibit the opening of new ones in localities unsuitable for the purpose. It is hard to say whether such an omission was made in deference to any ob-structive prejudice that bristled up when the existing Act was being shaped in committee, or whether the matter was overlocked. Whatto have little or no influence now, for, judgto have little or no influence now, for, judg-sing from the tone of the debate on Tuesday night, all parties are pretty well agreed as to the propriety of closing burial grounds situ-ated in the neighbourhood of towns so soon as the suburbs shall have abutted upon their boundaries. The only difference of opinion manifested was—not respecting the power of certain trustees to close—but in the menifested was—not respecing the power of certain trustees to close—but in the power given to twenty householders in the neighbourhood of such a ground to demand that burials should forthwith cease. If the clause had stood that twenty householders should practically have the power to shut the gates of any cemetery, it is probable that very soon every private cemetery would be closed, not on public grounds at all, but on personal. Envy and malice are in perpetual operation in every malice are in perpetual operation in every malice are in perpetual operation in every community, and where such a chance is afforded as that proposed in the bill new before us, it is hardly to be supposed that it will not be seized. The clause was amended—the word fifty being substituted for twenty. This makes it less objectionable; but it is questionable whether inquiry should not rather be based upon the request of the Municipal Council within whose domain the ground lies.

But, so far, provision is only made for But, so lar, provision is only made for closing grounds. The bill is silent with respect to opening new ones, and certainly it should not be. It is desirable that suitable sites should be selected for the abode of the dead, and that people should not be induced to bury where the remains of those dear to them will be likely to be interfered with by public works or private necessity. It will be well, therefore, that any person or number of persons who design to approor number of persons who design to appro-priate a piece of land for the reception of the dead, either as a matter of business or a benevolence to the public, should make known their purpose, and obtain the consent benevolence to the public, should make known their purpose, and obtain the consent of the Legislature to it.

It is now too late to debate the question of the suitability of Haslem Creek for the purpose to which it is put. If a bad job has been made, the best must now be made of the bad job. The place is chiefly objected to on the score of distance, and the objection could only be cancelled by reducing the expenses of burial, and rendering the ground very attractive. The rates at Haslem Creek, however, seem to have exceeded, for a great part of the term, the rates charged elsewhere, and therefore superior inducements were offered to effect burials in other places, and to multiply burial-grounds beyond the requirements of population, in evidence of which we have only to consider the existence of twenty-four burial-grounds within the police district of Sydney. Had the Necropolis been under a spirited and harmonious body of trustees, there would have been no need for all these places. They might have been reduced by twenty by this time, and that without imparting to the managers of the national ground monopoly privileges.

But the appointment of thirty-seven trustees, and the importation into the managers.

But the appointment of thirty-seven trus-tees, and the importation into the manage-ment of all the religious differences that operate outside, has proved fatal to the suc-cess of the undertaking, and not only has the country expended a very large sum upon the grounds, railway, and buildings, but has been called upon to make up a yearly defi-ciency, which must be regarded to be the result of mismansgement. These trustees act in sepa-rate denominational lots, under no sense of responsibility, and without reference to each other. There are separate grounds, separate chapels, separate interests, but no presiding head to which, in things general, all these independencies are bound to submit. By the existing law the Government has reserved no power over the fees, or, of course, over the appropriation thereof; and though for the interests of the cemetery it is necessary that the surplus of these fees should be spent in the beautification of the ground held by each denomination, the money is mainly "appropriated," according to Mr. Forster, "for aggrandising the denominations" themselves, the Government being left to attend to the flowers and extend the planting selves, the Government being left to to the flowers and extend the planting.

There can be little doubt that six or seven trustees will manage the affairs of the Cemetery with much greater success and satisfaction to the public than thirty-seven appointed to serve distinct interests, as at present. The serve distinct interests, as at present. The Government considers that so great an im-provement will be effected that the Cemetery will pay its own way, and for this reason no charge on the public revenue appears for it on the Estimates just introduced.

Some fault has been found with the expenditure upon the Redfern Station and Mortuary Receiving-house at Haslem Creek. We do not concur in the objection. These are both beautiful buildings, and suited to the objects for which they are raised. Architecturally they are perfect models of two styles avecadingly any anymetate to models of two styles exceedingly appropriate to our climate; ecclesiastically they are fitted to solemnise the mind in the presence of death, and deepen the feelings occasioned by the loss of friends. They strike the key note in stone for all designers who are in future to be em-ployed either to raise chapels or to lay out the ground with drives, walks, and plantations. The ground with drives, walks, and plantations. The effect of their beauty will be to beautify all. If this prediction be verified, the Necropolis will become one of the most charming places in the neighbourhood of the city, and the general resort of all whose feelings have been shocked by the wild and until recently uncared for appearance of the ground. To raise the character of the Cemetery it is necessary to complete the laying out of the ground upon a plan that shall picturesquely embrace and harmonise all the several sections now existing, to reduce the fees, and to secure the performance of the act of burial with all that VACCHATION PROUT THE ANTHAL.—At a meeting of the British Redical Association, on July 3rd, at Leeds, papers on vaccination were read by Dr. Blenc, Dr. Branch, wood, and Dr. Steet, and gave the to middension. Dr. Blanc (the Alyxinian prisoner) has included in this country the practice of vaccination directly come beffer, a practice that he been much pursued on the Continent, and for which the advantage is claimed that it precludes all possibility of the conveyance of any constitutional disease, over and above the cowpox, to the infant that its vaccinated. Dr. Blanc recounted his experience, and expressed the advantages of animal vaccination in the five following propositions: —" 1. The healthy heifer, incculated with pure spontaneous corpox, supplies a vaccine lymph free from all morbid principles. Although the dangers of humanised lymph are much exagerated, still we must admit that under certain circumstances the transmission of other disease from child to child is possible—nay, that the actual cerurrence of such transmission is an acknowledged fact. 2. Spontaneous cowpox transmitted through the bovine race is more active, more lasting in its effects, and more likely then humanised lymph to afferd perfect immunity from smallpox. In other words, the present humanised lymph is disegurated—a fact placed beyond doubt by revaccination as practised in the Prussian army, by the gradually-increasing resucceptibility of the vaccinated, and the gradually-increasing resucceptibility of the vaccinated, when a circumstance of the chovine race, the same a smallpox is a disease of the human race; teansmitted on the soil natural to them they be the same and the capacination, and the process of the part of the process of the part of possession of the powder, and put it over the chimney in the kitchen; he found it there after his son shot himself; his son was a sober man.

By the jury: There were a couple of pistols in the house, and these with some cyalic acid he put into the hole over the chimney in the kitchen to be put out of his son's way; he found everything in the position in which he loft them.

The Coroner said that unless they desired to have the evidence of the other sister of deceased, there was no further evidence to pisco before them.

The jury were of opinion that the nister's evidence was not required as she could only corroborate the testimony given by Agnes Fleming.

The Coroner directed the jury $\frac{a}{2}$ to their finding, whother Fleming had destroyed himself while he was in a state of insanity, or when he was in a state in which he might have been able to distinguish between right and wrong. Their finding would have to be either suicide whilst labouring under a fit of temporary insanity, or on the other hand a verdict of felo dess.

The jury without retiring found that deceased committed suicide by shooting himself whilst labouring under a fit of temporary insanity.

(Abridged from the Express.) An action for breach of promise was tried on Friday and Saturday last, before his Honor the Chief Justice, —the plantiff, Miss Halley, being a dreasmaker, resident in Wagga Wagga, and the defendant, Mr. Jackson, a quatter, residing at the Boree station. Damages were laid at £3000. Defendant paid £50 into Court.

Mr. Windeyer and Mr. Forbes, instructed by Mosga.

acting in a shameful manner; expected to go to the wedding on the Monday morning, and was prepared to do so.

Cross-examined: Am sure the marriage was fixed for the Monday; suggested the probability of life's uncertainty, and told Miss Halley that defendant might not live for more than a year; did not consent to act as her parent and guardian in the matter; the defendant, I have often heard, is a person of notoriously drunken habits; I know defendant is in the habit of living occasionally at the Pastoral Rotel in this town; on the light is aw defendant at this hotel; I took memorandums of all I know of this matter, but do not think that I ever said I 'screwed' defendant up to £500, but could not go any higher; sover thought the matter a love affair; do not think that plaintiff was ever very fond of the defendant; on one occasion plaintiff told me that defendant; solicitor called upon her, and told her that the matter might be settled for £100; have never had mugh communication with defendant's daughter, but believe that the first introduction was through the daughters getting all their millinery work done at plaintiff's; am quite certain that he knew what he was about when he spoke of going to be married on the Monday; have often seen plaintiff since the leith of March, and have been asked by her whether I knew whether defendant had ever made arrangement about a wedding trip to Ablury.

James Simpson, painter, deposed: Know the defendant; he engaged me to paint his house on the Monday before St. Patrick's Day; saw him at Miss Halley's; he told me to paper and paint his house at Borce, as he was going to be married to Miss Halley; called Miss Halley and told her; ahe said she hard him spashing to me about getting the brokfast ready; Jakkson said "iget everything ready, and I will pey you well;" he said the wedding true of the proper of the painting the said the

was to come off on the following Monday, and that I could go out to Borce with the two daughters on the Tuesday, as he was going to Melbourne with Miss Halley, and would be away for about a fortnight; defendant was quite clear and solet.

Cross-examined: Knew no'hing about defendant before; Miss Halley was the first to speak about painting the house; she said she had spoken to defendant on the subject; she told me she was going to be married on the following Monday; Miss Halley spoke first to defendant about the wedding breakfast; the breakfast was prepared, and everything ready for the Monday; it was to take place at Miss Halleys; did not go out to Borce, because this unfortunate match (laughter) was broken off; the last time I saw defendant at Miss Halley and the subject; never heard from Miss Halley that they were to be married at Albury; there was a letter written on the Wednesday.

Mr. Stephen: Do you think, now, the old fellow knew on the Monday that he was going to be married.

Witness: I can only answer that question by another. If you had promised to marry a nice young woman, and ordered the wedding breakfast, don't you think you would know that you were going to be married? (Laughter.) I believe that desiendant thoroughly knew what he was saying and doing, and knew that he was going to be married; of the wedding, and knew that he was going to be married; lave, when the defendant if its came to our house about the 15th February; he came there with his two daughters; they were both grown up; knew my sister and defendant were to be married; have often heart them talking about it; the daughters came soveral times with the father after the marriage was spoken of, and seemed very anxious to have the marriage was spoken of, and seemed very axions to have the match come off; they have said in his presence that they would be very anxious to see their father married, as they thought he would be more happy; he made the proposal of marriage; about a week sfur he first came; was not present when he proposed, but h start on Thursday for Albury; don't know whether my sister said she would go with him.

Mr. Stephen, showing witness a letter: Do you know this, witness!

Witness: I do.

Mr. Stephen: Do you know that your sister wrote a letter to defendant on the Wednesday?

Mr. Windeyer objected. His learned friend had no right to refresh the witness's memory in this way.

Witness resumed: I know that my sister was unwilling to marry defendant in Lent, but also overcame her scruples; defendant in Lent, but also overcame her scruples; defendant is the first time plaintiff knew anything of defendant; don't know whether she made any inquiries as to defendant's character; defendant has three daughters: he came with two unmarried daughters; their ages are about twenty and seventeen; they came limit to order dresses, and their father came with them; no message had been sent by my sister to defendant to say she'd be glad to see him; they often came afterwards; often heard defendant say "Will you accept my proposals;" it was after she accepted him that sergeant Carroll's advice was asked; my sister agreed to go to Albury; nothing was said of this until after the Montay we made the Miss Jackson's dresses; these were included in the £50; we made a great many dresses for the Miss Jackson's both before and after, and have since been paid £20.

Re-examined: One of the daughters came on Monday and said she did not know how it was the marriage did not come off; Tuesday was the first day we saw defendant, when he said the reason he had not come round was because he had been chaned at Callaghan's; he then proposed that they should go to Albury and get married; and promised to return to make arrangements; he did not come and then my sister wrote to know what he meant; he never came sgain; he was always saber when he came near to our houre; the daughters spoke freely of the marriage, and seemed very anxious; defendant asked my sister several times to marry him, and she put him off because it was Lent.

This was the plaintiff's case.

Mr. Stephe

This was the plaintiff's case.

Mr. Stephen called the following witnesses for the defence:

W. Gibbes deposed: Am attorney for the defendant; saw the defendant in town nearly every day for a month, previous to March 17th last; never was instructed by him to prepare a bill of marriage settlement; he used to stay at the l'astoral Hotel, and was almost constantly in a half-drunken state; invariably went to his hotel took business with him before breakfast, so as to find him sober; I had one interview with plaintiff, and told her that defendant was always nearly drunk, to which she replied repudiating the statement; had at that time a long conversation with her, and spoke abvit defendant's family, and was sambbed in reply; gave 'plaintiff, at that time, to understand that defendant wished the contract broken off, which she would not allow, saying that it was not as if it were a love match. The following letter was put in and read.

"Wagas Wagra, March 18th, 1859.

"My dear Jahn.—In reference to your wish to start to Albery, to have the narriage certamny perfurement three, will you kindly come round and let us it a time for us to start, and if we require to take saything with us for the read. Come round a once piezes.

"Yours affectionately,"

Matthew Callaghan deposed that the defendant stayed at his house, the Pastoral Hotel; defendant stayed three constantly for more than a month previous to March 17th, and used to; drink almost constantly, so much so that his William and Windeyer, appeared for the plaintif, and Mr. M. H. Stephen, instructed by Mr. Gibbos, for the defendant.

Rr. Windeyer, having addressed the Court, called Julin Cartell, regressit of police, who deposed: Know the first having addressed the bear and the second of the first he would never going to do so, I would be one of the first he would never going to do so, I would be one of the first he would never going to do so, I would be one of the first he would never going to do so, I would be one of the first he would never going to do so, I would be one of the first he would never going to do so, I would be one of the first he would never going to do so, I would be one of the first he would never the firs

DEVINE V. NUBOULT.

This was an action brought by Thomas Devine against Joseph Nuboult for goods seld and delivered. The plaintiff, a contractor, restding at Emised, claimed £15 3s. M. from the defendant, a coach proprietor, living at Eurowod—the claim being made for and in respect of timber and other building materials, sold and delivered by plaintiff to defendant at his request. Accounts were rendered, specifying particulars of the amount claimed. The defence of Nuboult was that Devine and himself were in partnership together, and that Devine had participated in the benefits of the work done, for which the goods were supplied. Evidence was given on behalf of defendant, showing that plaintiff and defendant had entered jointly into several contracts as partners. His Honor was of opinion, from the ordence adduced, that the partnership had been proved, and so gave a verdiet for the defendant. For the plaintiff, Mr. B. B. Smith; for the defendant, Mr. F. Gannon.

SIMMONES V. GRAMAN.

In this case there was an application made for a new trial; Mr. K. B. Smith; applying, on behalf of the defendant, for a rehearing of the case, in consequence of the inavoidable absence of the diedant. A new trial was granted. On the rehearing of the case, at a later hour of the day, the plaintiff and his wife gave evidence in support of the claim preferred by them. Plaintiff had invited her to stop at his hause as a victor, and that there had been no agreement whatever for her to pay for her beard and lodging during her temporary sojourn. Whilst she stopped at Mr. and Mrs. Simmonds had made for defendant the shirt of a dress. Verdict for plaintiff, 3a. Pertners and and even helped in the business. Mrs. Simmonds had made for defendant the shirt of a dress. Verdict for plaintiff, 2f. THE PENALTY OF A NAME.

To the Editor of the Herald.

Sin,—"Aleph's" "All the high legal authorities" were to prove that "there is no Church of England boyond the shores of England," notwithstanding Lords Westbury's and Remilly's judicial decisions to the contrary.

Fut to the test, he produces three (not including the Sydney Morning Herald, whose exalted position in the superior Courts of law, you, Sir, will doubtless appreciately who assert that "there is no established religion in Australia," and that "in Australia the Church of England was no more established than the Roman Catholic of Presbyterian Churches." Surely we wanted no high legal authority for this patent fact which nobody disputed.

"Aleph," of course, in the heat of the last quotation, forgot to sak himself (se Lindley Murray says). "Who? or what? with the verb was" so as to find its subject. What Church, my dear "Aleph," does the loarned Justice say is "no more established than" those others. Why, he returns answer for himself, "the Church of England "—which therefore exists as those others, though, like them, not established. So, "Aleph," it seems that by meddling with the edged tools of law you have cut your own fingers—there, do not cry about it.

As this was the only point in dispute, I do not know what he means by saying. "I have given up every point in dispute except this." This, I presume, he has now given what he means by saying. "I have given up every point in the year 1871, when "the United Church of England and I cland" shall ecose to be technically correct, I can assure him we shall find no difficulty. The name which his great suthority gives us already, "the Church of England and I cland" shall ecose to be technically correct, I can assure him we shall find no difficulty. The name which his great suthority gives us already, "the Church of England and teland" shall ecose to be technically correct, I can assure him we shall find

Yours truly,

[We think it desirable to mention that the gratilement who write, under the signstures "Aleph" and "Tau," are both attached members of the Church of England.—.

The usual quarterly return showing a comparative statement of the consolidated revenue of the colony of New South Wales, and of the special funds during the quarters ended 30th September, 1868, and 30th September, 1869, respectively, was issued in a supplementary Gazette to-day. A large increase in the revenue receipts was intimated by the Colonial Treasurer in his financial statement yesterday, and the document published to-day shows how and the document published to-day shows how far the past quarter has contributed to the improvement. Under the head of receipts of revenue proper there appears to be a decrease in every item except tea, Murray River, and ad valorem. The two latter give an increase of £16,442, which, with £1265 in tea, covers the deficiency on other items and leaves a net increase. on other items, and leaves a net increase in this department of nearly £8000. The land revenue yielded £91,225, an increase of £6653. revenue yielded £91,225, an increase of £6653. The most noticeable items under this head are an increase of £10,461 in land sales, and a decrease of £7306 in rents and assessments of pastoral runs. Railways show a net increase of £10,930, and postage of £1302; refined sugar, gold, fees under Brands Registration and Necropolis Acts, money orders, fees of office, fines and forfeitures, rents, stamps, telegraphs, pilotage, harbour and tonnage dues, also contribute to the increase en the quarter. The import markets close with a dull feeling, which has prevailed throughout the week. The only event of importance was the sale of the first cargo of new Mauritius sugars, which, although to a bare market, at once brought down quetations, and left about one fourth of the cargo on importers' hands. Ration and yellow counters are still very scarce, and are anaffected by the decline in finer qualities. The flour market shows a further reduction on all descriptions. Adelaide sorts are selling at £15 10s. to £16 10s.; Sydney mills, £15. There have been no transactions in Candles are moderately firm at last week's prices. I I ICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions from THOMAS LEE, Eq., to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Fitt-street, Sydney, on TUESDAY, the 19th October next, at 11 o'clock,
The above valuable cattle property.

BILLABONG STATION comprises five rich blacks of Billabong Lower Billabong Billabong Back Run Clear Ridges, and

torning together hearly a square tract of country, embracing about 140,600 ACRES of the richest fattening pasturage.
On the north the run includes nearly the whole of the Coust Lake, which, either in times of drought or ordinary seasons, carries and fattens a very large quantity of stock; the principal portion of the rest of the run is composed of numerous small plains, richly grassed, and divided by hells of myall. The southern portion of the run, formed by the Clear Ridges block; is mestly open forest country, sound, healthy, and well grassed, and admirablyadapted for, and would carry, a large number of aheep.

The supply of water is abundant and permanent, as, in addition to LAKE COWAL, BLAND CREEK forms one boundary of the station, while the back run is also

The supply of water is abundant and permanent, as, in addition to LAKE COWAL, BLAND CREEK forms one boundary of the station, white the back ran is also well watered by BRANCH CREEK, flowing all through the country into Lake Cowal.

The IMPROYEMENTS are extensive and complete; they comprise DWELLING-HOUSE of 6 rooms, kitchen, hay shed, and all other necessary outbuildings. The stock-yard is capable of working 5000 had of cattle, and is litted with drafting yards, having swing gates and every requisite for conveniently working the herd.

The paddock accommodation is large, and is enclosed by about twenty miles of good fencing, forming a block of nearly five miles square, subdivided into four paddock, viz., the house, hore, dairy, and grass paddock—the latter containing about 16,000 acres.

On the run there is a substantial Dairy Establishment, at which about 100 cows are constantly at work; this has so much steaded the cattle that they might nearly be called a DAIRY HERD.

The Billabong station is about 45 miles from the Weddin Mountain Diggings, 40 miles from Forbes, 150 from Bathurst, and about 500 miles from Forbes, 150 from Bathurst, and about 500 miles from Melbourns. It is situated close to the main route for cattle travelling to the Southern market, and would make an excellent depot in connection with breeding stations. It has no main road through the run.

With the above station will be sold

Mailland, on WEDNESDAY, 17th November, 1000, at 12 o'clock,
That excellent station, WALLABADAH, extensively improved.
With the station will be sold
22,000 (more or less) MIXED FINE-WOOLLED
8HEEP, and 100 (more or less) head of QUIET
CATTLE (a mixed herd).
Thirty (more or less) horses, two teams of horses, four-drays, or ching plant of station, stores, and sundries, to be taken at adhastion.
Between 2600 and 3000 acres of purchased land will be given in.

taken at a vanuation.

Between 2500 and 3000 acres of purchased land witt be given in.

The aheep are of superior description, having been carefully bred, and the flocks regulated under the personal supervision of the owner.

Specification will shortly be advortised.

The purchased land has been indiciously selected, and secures to the station a plentiful supply of water in all seasons. The country not watered by the Wallabadah and other creeks, being made available by wells, which yield water readily at a depth of about 15 feet.

The IMPROVEMENTS are as fellows:

At the HOMESTRAD, a good house, of brick, with iron roof, containing of rooms; litchen (of wood), comented brick tank (capacity, 4000 gallons), overseer's cottage and kitchen, a smaller cottage with kitchen, good stockyards, woolshed, with press and yards complete; men's huts, for, for, a salection out-stations, with huts and yards.

woolabes, with press and yards complete; men's huis, &c. &c.
There are also ten out-stations, with huis and yards, three paddocks (one of about 600 acres, and two of about 6000 acres each), well fenced.

The attention of all requiring a valuable station within a short distance of the markets in called to this property, the owner's instructions being positive, and the sale absolute. Stations situated only some 125 miles from the Maltland market, and in the best of our flattening districts, are but seldom efferted, inspection of Wallabadah is therefore puriticularly invited; and any further information that may be required by intending purchasers can be obtained at the office of the auctioneers.

THURSDAY, 28th instant.

VALUABLE AND VERY CHOICE COUNTRY PROPERTY, situated twelve miles from Goulburn, on the GREAT SOUTHERN ROAD, with very substantial improvements, splendid Sheepproof and Grazing Paddocks, and every convenience requisits for its acceptance as a GENTLEMAN'S COUNTRY RESIDENCE, or, from its great facilities and admirable situation, is unusually well situated for a large DAIRYING ESTABLISHMENT, STOCK DEPOT, or MODEL FARM.

CINLAY and CO., Goulburn, have received instructions from Mr. Robert Plumb, Shelly's Flats, to sell by auction, at their Rooms, Belmore-square, on THURS-DAY, 28th instant, at 12 o clock, His valuable property, at Shelly's Flats, comprised in the following:—

The house is a stone building, with polished front, flagged verandah, and contains 11 rooms, all of which are commodious and uniform in size, with cellar underneath. Detached stone building, with kitchen and four bedstrooms.

nagged verandsh, and contains 11 rooms, all of which are commodious and uniform in size, with cellar underneath. Detached stone building, with kitchen and four bedrooms.

The out-offices include two stables, containing respectively six and eight stalls, with shingled coach-house and boarded floor 36 x 38; also a large and well-built hay-shed, shingled, 60 x 20; three horse-boxes, and shingled but, containing four rooms.

The garden and orchard are well laid out, the latter covering an area of two acres, with fruit trees in full bearing.

The freehold is abundantly watered, and is comprised in a BLOCK OF 1071 ACRES OF REALLY PIRST-CLASS AGRICULTURAL AND GRAZING LAND, and on which are creeted all the improvements; 500 acres are subdivided into sheep-proof and cattle-grazing paddocks. This, with 4340 ACRES of SECURED PRE-EMPTIVE and LEASE LANDS, make a grand total of 5411 ACRES.

all of which is of the best description, and will enable the purchaser to graze at least two full flocks of sheep and deiry a goodly number of cattle.

The above property, which is brought into the market for absolute sale, is probably better known to the traveller and general public than any other of a similar character—the commanding situation, beautiful aspect, and great conveniences of house and paddocks, established for it a name and connection, during the time it was open to the public, second to none out of Sydney.

From the salubrious and beautiful situation of the house, sale lity and character of the improvements, togother with the asimirably laid-out paddocks and large extent of grazing land, this property recommends itself as a gentlemen's country residence or a homestead, and grazing steading of an extendive nature. In fact, from its proximity to the railway stations of Goulburn and Marulan—twelve may also be looked upon as the most inviting stock depot us he Bouthern districts.

The Auctioners are requested to intimate that this property is brought forward for abeliance may remain secured upon the Bouthern districts.
